A MIDNIGHT PROCESSION

Shouted Aloud the Gladsome Tidings.

THE CITY GAVE A BIG VOTE

The County Is All Right and the District Defeats Mr. Sherwood By a Splendid Majority For Tayler—Old Columbiana Was on Fire With Enthusiasm When the Good News Was Confirmed—The News Review Told the People All About It as the Bulletins Arrived—In Other Towns.

LISBON, Nov. 4. — [Special] — The county is Republican by 2,953, and Hon. R. W. Tayler is the next congressman by a majority over Sherwood of 6,062. The county ticket varied but very little from the number of votes given McKinley.

"We didn't do a thing to them," shouted a big man as he stood in front of the NEWS REVIEW at midnight, but he couldn't hear the sound of his own voice. A bulletin had just announced that McKinley would have no less than 331 electoral votes, and the big crowd went wild.

For hours those people had been hearing the news as it was taken from the ticker in the office and was speedily transferred to the blackboard in the window. Since early in the evening they had been there. The news began to arrive soon after 7 o'clock, and as Republican gain followed Republican gain, the enthusiasm of the people knew no bounds. They had cheered and cheered until they were hoarse, but when that glorious intelligence was spun out from the end of the tightly grasped bit of chalk, a regiment of dragoons could not have held them. They broke forth in a wild, glad shout, which spread itself along Washington, and turning into Fourth and Fifth streets was caught up by other thousands, who threw high their hats in the air, and cheered as they had never cheered before. They were glad. The news meant much to them. The privations and sufferings of hard times began to fade into the past, the spotless angel of prosperity appeared in the distance, and the very red fire with which they were surrounded was taken up in a soft and pleasing glow that spread into the heavens and formed a bow of promise so beautiful and pure that it appealed to all.

And so it was all over the city. The day had ended with the great majority confident of victory. When the polls closed and the counting began the people grew restless. They walked the streets and wandered from place to place, anxious for information, and when the first word came from the east that the vote was for McKinley, the crowds took up their favorite positions and prepared for a victory such as the country had never known before. Then it became certain. The news could not be denied. The press associations had announced their decision. New York had rolled up a tremendous majority; Chicago and the rest of Illinois had sat hard upon Altgeld; Bryan's home had declared against him, and Columbiana county seemed almost sure. That was enough for East Liverpool. Its cause had won, and its people were happy.

At 11:50 someone turned on the steam, and the whistle at the Standard pottery sent forth a skriek of delight. In half a minute the whistles on the plant of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company began to pour forth the glad tidings. Ten minutes afterward the light plant was announcing in ear-piercing screams that McKinley was elected. The Dresden, McNicol and many other manufacturing plants joined the chorus, and what a chorus it was. Seldom has such a noise been heard in the county. It was a unanimous cry that appealed to all the people, and was greeted with shout after shout. The very air seemed to quiver and tremble under the influence of all that noise; but it was not a marker to what followed when the great scope of the victory dawned upon the city.

Thousands had been on the streets during the entire evening, but some had gone home. When the whistles began to blow they could endure it no longer. With a shout, they joined their friends and neighbors, and that old-fashioned pandemonium broke loose. It was not one of those gentle demonstrations such as they might have in a country village, but a whole-souled exercise of every power that could be induced to make a noise. A dozen processions sprung into existence, as though some great magician had touched them with his wonderful wand. Crowds in the streets shouted and sang, danced and capered as though they were mad. Bells, tin horns and good lungs all united to create an awful sound. A big man caught up a smaller companion, and swinging around, yelled as though he was a wild Indian, instead of one of the most orderly and respectable residents of the city. Friends fell on each others necks and almost wept with joy, while life-long enemies clasped hands with cordial grasp and shouted for McKinley. Women who had probably never screamed in public throughout all the days of their lives, added what voice they possessed to the noise, and distributed smiles and nods with a generosity only born of the best of humor. It was a scene not soon forgotten, and in years to come the small boy of today will talk with enthusiasm to his wondering grandchildren of the mighty demonstration when the Ceramic city learned its candidate had been elected president.

The parade formed without regard to size or position. The Buckeye club brought out a few old transparencies, found somewhere a drum corps, and started on the march of triumph. They were received with a shout that might have been heard in Wellsville if the people of that staid old town had not suddenly gone wild and could not even hear themselves. Citizens joined the marching column, and a long irregular blaze of light showed the direction in which they had gone. Another drum corps appeared, and another procession was instantly formed. The man who would not march was no patriot, and had no place with that crowd. Scores of small boys armed with tin whistles (heaven only knows where they got them) sprang up on every hand. They joined a procession, and playing a tune which might have been Old Hundred or Yankee Doodle for all the crowd could tell, capered through the streets. Here the tin pan appeared. Someone had been unable to find his horn when he left home, and catching up a dish pan or wash basin he started for the field of action, and what a noise they made. The horns were eclipsed and tin pans were at a premium.

About this time somebody conceived the idea of having a big parade; of uniting the tramping squads and showing what a spontaneous demonstration the city could bring forth. The members of the Manley band were hastily gathered together, and all the processions moved to Republican headquarters. There the long column was formed. The band marched in front, and though they blew until their cheeks appeared as miniature balloons, and the big bass drum was almost burst with pounding, they could scarcely be heard. Members of the central committee fell in behind, and the East Liverpool Athletic club, arrayed in every manner of raiment known to their fertile brain, came next. They danced along in the most alarming attitudes, and developed enthusiasm that would put to blush the average circus clown. The First Voters were in line with a good representation, and their yells could be heard above the din in which they marched. The Columbian and Phœnix clubs fell into line, and another drum corps followed. Then came a long line of citizens. A well-dressed attorney walked side by side with a shouting youngster, and the prosperous merchant capered gaily along with the humblest toiler, each shouting as though he would never shout again. There were no class lines in that crowd. Everybody was for McKinley, and they didn't care a cent how soon the world knew it. The rear was brought up by a wagon. In it rested a large skiff, and an enthusiastic Republican was at the oars, rowing in realistic imitation of the Bryanite attempting to stem the tide of Salt river. The procession covered the principal streets, and after several hours of vigorous marching, wound up in one great blaze of red fire and cheers. Then the people quit; but they did not go home. Hundreds remained on the streets, and until the early dawn broke over the valley, there were horn toots and throat toots for the great victory so easily won and so enthusiastically celebrated.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The News Review Bulletins Caught the Big Crowd.

Of course the NEWS REVIEW bulletins held the crowd. They always do. The arrangements for gathering the news were perfect, and the bulletins were given so that every man, woman and child in the big audience could see the announcements very plainly. The old idea of telling the news by means of a stereopticon was far too slow for East Liverpool, and the NEWS REVIEW decided to announce the returns as soon as possible after the telegraph brought the glad tidings to the city. A special wire was stretched to the office, and an expert in taking election returns sat within a few feet of the window. The blackboard, large enough for every purpose, was so placed in the window that all could see. The long distance telephone, not 10 feet distant, was constantly in use, and thus was given the glorious news.

The crowd appreciated it. Hundreds who knew the reputation of the NEWS REVIEW hastened into Washington street to hear the first returns, and others who tried to obtain intelligence where the news was imperfectly bulletined soon found the NEWS REVIEW the only place to get the best and the latest. When once on the ground they remained, and from soon after 7 o'clock until after the clocks had struck four they remained in the street. No one attempted to estimate the crowd, but the cheers which went heavenward made up convining proof that a great many people were enjoying the efforts of the NEWS REVIEW. The vote of each precinct in the city was given out a very few minutes after the count was completed, and the promptness with which the announcement was made was cheered by the crowd. The city and all other reports were first shown at this office.

The NEWS REVIEW acknowledges the many compliments on its service, and takes a pardonable pride in announcing that it will always do the same—give the latest news at all times.

TOMORROW NIGHT

The Biggest Jollification For Years Will Take Place.

The central committee held a meeting this afternoon, and decided that the people should jollify after the most approved method tomorrow evening. They will assemble at Republican headquarters at 7 o'clock, and form a parade, which will move through the principal streets of the city. There will be enough red fire to light the city from end to end, and all the bands in the city will make the music. Every citizen is asked to decorate his residence and himself, and join in the hilarity. The word will be passed along the valley, and it is expected that a large crowd will come from the country back of the city, West Virginia and down the river. It will be the greatest jollification the city ever saw, and every man, woman and child in town is invited to lend voice and influence in making it a success.

MARCHED ALL NIGHT.

County Seat Republicans Made Rome Howl.

LISBON, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—No sane man would have doubted the Republicanism of the county seat last night. The town was wild. Early in the evening the Bryanite leaders, realizing their cause was lost, gave out no more extravagant figures, and the Republicans began to march. No one knew how the crowd gathered or where it came from, but it was there, and the marching was continued almost all night. When the news came from Liverpool there was a great demonstration. At 2 o'clock they called on W. S. Potts, but he did not appear. The result in this place was as follows:

McKinley, 834; Bryan, 429; Tayler, 830; Sherwood, 429. Palmer got two and the Prohibitionists polled 4.

CONGRATULATED THE MAJOR.

Telegram After Telegram Went From the City Today.

Many personal friends of Major McKinley kept the wires hot this morning sending him their heartfelt congratulations, but of all the telegrams sent to Canton none were better than the following from the First National bank of this city:

"This bank, its officers, its shareholders and its employes congratulate you and this fair land with genuine feelings of great joy on the result of your election, and our escape from Bryanism, Altgeldism and ruin.

"N. G. MACRUM,
"Cashier."

SALEM VOTED,

And the Pops Went Down In Crushing Defeat.

SALEM, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—When the vote was counted in Salem the streets were crowded with people, and never before in the history of the town were there such scenes. The Bryanites made a hard fight and expected to carry the city, but the vote was against them. They were defeated by 1,208 for McKinley and 869 for Bryan. There was some cutting on the county ticket.

SETTLING UP.

There Will Be Several Wheelbarrow Processions.

There will be a number of wheelbarrow parades in town tonight, the settlement of election bets in which the principals pay the penalty of too much confidence. George Boyd will start from the monument at 8 o'clock, and gracefully wheel Alex McBane around the square, while Charley Schaub, the electrician, will go through the same performance with R. L. Edmonston in the barrow. The crowd will make merry along the route and all will enjoy the occasion.

A MESSAGE FROM ELKINS

Says That West Virginia Is Very Safe.

Hon. Peter A. Pugh was in from Hancock county this morning, and upon reaching here received a message from Senator Elkins saying West Virginia was for McKinley by at least 12,000.

Chester came to the front with a noble vote. It gave McKinley 118, Bryan 55, and the Prohibition man seven. It is a big gain, and no one is working in Chester today.

KEPT ITS PROMISE.

Salineville Gave McKinley a Nice Increase.

SALINEVILLE, Nov. 4.—[Special]—The vote was not counted here until midnight, but the Republicans who waited to hear the returns were more than repaid by the long delay. Here is the result:

South precinct—McKinley, 246; Bryan, 185. North—McKinley, 138; Bryan, 174. This is a Republican gain of five in Washington township.

SOME CELEBRATIONS.

They Cannot Wait For the Big Jollification.

The employes of the bridge, in the main Republican, are arranging for a jollification of their own tonight. They will have fireworks and abundant enthusiasm.

The Republicans, of East End, will jollify this evening. They want all the city to join in the celebration, and announce that an imposing column will start to march at 7 o'clock.

BIG VOTE IN WELLSVILLE.

McKinley Carried Everything This Side of Yellow Creek.

Wellsville covered herself all over with glory, and celebrated after the most approved style. Crosser ran ahead of his ticket, and McNutt got a vote that made the genial John smile from ear to ear. When the totals were footed up and all men knew what the city had done, the vote was:

McKinley, 911; Bryan, 493; Levering, 34; Palmer, 4.

ALWAYS FAITHFUL.

St. Clair Township Came to the Front Yesterday.

St. Clair township had its usual Republican vote. There was very little trouble with the silver people from the start, and the vote was sure from the jump. The vote was McKinley, 160; Bryan, 113; Levering, 12; Palmer, 1. A few county candidates were only credited with 159.

THE BONDS.

Each Proposition Met With Strong Favor.

The vote for bonds was observed by almost 1,500 people yesterday. The eight precincts reported to Doctor Norris today showed the three propositions had carried by majorities of 357, 292 and 300. In these precincts a total of 1,253 votes were cast.

TO HIS OLD FRIEND.

Mr. J. M. Kelly Sent a Few Words to Mark Hanna.

J. M. Kelly has long been a personal friend of Mark Hanna, and when he learned the good news he at once wired Mr. Hanna to read the third verse of the 126 Psalm. That, the gentleman believed, would express his sentiment to a nicety.

A Big Average.

A party of enthusiastic Republicans, chaperoned by Capt. Andrew Purr, of Georgetown, are in the city today. Georgetown responded nobly to the call and gave McKinley 50, Bryan 5 and Levering 2. The little town celebrated the event with a procession and much cheering.

A Supper.

The members of the Columbian club sat down to an excellent supper last midnight.

GET down to business, friends; have faith in the future, and the country will step boldly to the front.

WANTED—To know the whereabouts of one organization known in East Liverpool as the Bryan club.

THE greatest blessing of the avalanche was the burying of Altgeld. That crimson-hued gentleman will now take his place in the rear of the top gallery.

COLUMBIANA county is all right. Faithful to the right it has shown its right to rebuke those demagogues who advised honest railroad men to become outlaws.

ALL hail to the honest money Democrats who forgot party long enough to remember patriotism. They will never regret it; their reward is sure. They have joined in a movement most commendable, and will share with satisfaction the prosperity of the nation.

AND NOW TO BUSINESS.

It is finished. The battle has been fought, and the victory won. For months the people have been on the verge of expectancy. They have hoped and longed for this day, and now that it is here they are satisfied. Let there be a great outpouring of all the people to celebrate the triumph of McKinley and honesty. It should be one grand shout of victory and loud acclaim, because the people and the people's cause have crushed, under the terrible power of their ballot, the dangerous serpent which reared its ugly head in the finely furnished office of the mine owner, and glaring with sparkling eyes upon the country, sought to devour what little prosperity the Democratic party had allowed to remain in the country.

And now to business. Prosperity is assured. The election of Major McKinley means that tariff legislation will be among the first if not the first duty of the administration. The Wilson bill will be repealed, a protective measure will take its place, and the people will again be happy and prosperous. Business will revive under the stimulating influence of unbounded confidence in the power of the government to protect its people, the country will take a greater station among the nations of the earth, and industry will be as it never was before. There is a great future for the United States, now that national dishonesty has been rebuked, anarchy cast down, and the land placed upon a basis that will allow it to stand where it by right belongs. The people have proved their patriotism, and will be rewarded by prosperity.

FORESTALLING THIEVES.

Why Thomas A. Edison Patents Everything He Invents.

As Thomas A. Edison watched the pumping of the air from a glass tube in his laboratory a day or two ago, a man said to him:

"You patent every little thing you discover, don't you, Mr. Edison?"

"I do," said Mr. Edison, "and do you know why I do it?"

"I suppose you do it so you will reap the benefit of your discovery," was the reply.

"I thought you'd say that," said Mr. Edison, "and I don't suppose you will believe me when I tell you it isn't so. Nevertheless, I discover a great many things that I would be glad to give to the public for nothing, but I don't dare. I patent these things to save myself from defending lawsuits. There are a lot of sharks in this world who are continually on the lookout for new things, and when one of them hears of something new he hustles to the patent office to see if it is patented. If it isn't, he claims it as an original discovery and files his claim. Then he will turn right around and, like as not, begin a suit with the man who invented the thing for making or using it. The inventor will say: 'But I discovered this thing first. I am the inventor.' He is referred to the patent office, where he finds the official claim of original invention. The fact that the papers are filed long after he made his discovery does not help him, for all the other man does is to hire a fellow to swear that he made the discovery a month or two prior to the date the inventor claims. It sounds ridiculous, probably, but it is a fact that there are often races between the inventors and the sharks to reach the patent office, the sharks having had early information about the inventor's discovery. There are many such races and thousands of dollars depend on each one. What I say is literally true."—New Ideas.

WORDS WITHOUT A RHYME.

English Language Contains Several Which Are Hard to Run Against.

There are a dozen words in the English language in everyday use for which enterprising people have despaired of ever finding a rhyme. The word "month," for example, is one of these. "Silver" is a word it seems very easy to secure a rhyme for, but as a matter of fact, trying to find something to rhyme with "silver" nearly drove a London writer of verse insane long ago As a last resort he advertised in the newspapers and received but one reply. It came from the master of verbal contortion, W. S. Gilbert, Sir Arthur Sullivan's erstwhile partner, who submitted the word "chilver." He wasn't quite clear, he said, as to what a chilver might be, but he had seen the word in advertisements of sales of farm stock and had an idea, which is correct, that it described a species of sheep.

"Orange" is another word without rhyme. "Gulf" is also without an English partner, and "culm" and "cusp" are alike solitary. Many poets who have sought in vain for rhymes to "revenge" and "avenge" will not be appeased when they learn that but two exist—"penge" and "Stonehenge." "Coif" is now, happily for versifiers, growing obsolete, for there is no word which rhymes with it. "Scarf" has been daringly linked at the end of a line with "half" or "calf," but this is a practice to be discouraged. "Scalp" rhymes only with "Alp," but, like "babe" and "astrolabe," it would require much ingenuity to find an excuse for bringing these words into juxtaposition. "False" has on several occasions, by an abuse of poetic license, been associated with "valse," though the correct French pronunciation of the latter word would destroy the rhyme.

Of the names of places the African town of Timbuktu has long been famous for being without rhyme. The nearest success that any poet has ever attained in this respect was when in some old verses describing a desert hunt "cassowary" was made to rhyme with "missionary" and "Timbuktu" with "china back too."—New York Press.

Cherry Stone Curiosities.

There is a cherry stone at the Salem, (Mass.) museum which contains one dozen silver spoons. The stone itself is of the ordinary size, but the spoons are so small that their shape and finish can only be well distinguished by the microscope. Dr. Oliver gives an account of a cherry stone on which were carved 124 heads so distinctly that the naked eye could distinguish those belonging to popes and kings and kings by their miters and crowns. It was bought in Prussia for $15,000 and thence conveyed to England, where it was considered an object of so much value that its possession was disputed and it became the object of a suit in chancery.

TO MY CYCLE.

Dear other self, so silent, swift and sure,
My dumb companion of delightful days,
Might fairy fingers from thy orbit rays
Of steel strike music, as the gods of yore
From reed or shell. What melodies would pour
On my glad ears! What songs of woodland ways,
Of summer's wealth of corn or the sweet lays
Of April's budding green, while evermore
We twain, one living thing, flash like the light
Down the long tracks that stretch from sky to sky!
Thou hast thy music too. What time the noon
Beats sultry on broad roads, when, gathering night,
We drink the keen edged air, or, darkling, fly
'Twixt hedgerows blackened by a mystic moon.

Sore Throat or Tonsilitis.

This disease is found most frequently in young persons.

The symptoms are a chilly feeling with more or less aching pains in the back and limbs.

The fever rises very rapidly, especially the evening of the first day. The patient complains of soreness of the throat and difficuity in swallowing.

On examination, the tonsils are seen to be swollen and usually covered with little white points or spots about as large as a pin head. At times the tonsils are only very red and free from spots. The duration of the disease is from three to ten days.

TREATMENT: Give patient a brisk cathartic, keeping the bowels free all the time. Apply applications of some kind to the throat and give Tonsiline in doses of from a teaspoonful for an adult, down to five or ten drops for small children, as directed in table of doses. Using Tonsiline as a gargle—Tonsiline one part, water three parts—every half hour will hasten recovery. Children sometimes complain of severe earache, which can best be eased by dropping warm sweet oil into the ear every hour or two until relieved. Tonsiline is sold by all dealers. Two sizes, 25 and 50 cents.

OHIO GAVE 90,000.

Good Majority For McKinley In His Own State.

17 REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.

The Democrats Sure of Two of the Members and the Result In Two Districts In Doubt—Names of the Congressmen Elected.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4.—Late returns reduce McKinley's plurality to 90,000 and complete returns from the rural districts may reduce it to 80,000

The returns indicate the election of seventeen Republicans and two Democrats to congress and two districts in doubt. In the Fifth district David Meckison and F. B. Dewitt, Republican, both claim their election. In the Thirteenth district James A. Norton, Democrat, and S. R. Hrrris, both claim their election. The Democrats elected J. P. McLean of Greenville in the Fourth district and James McDowell of Millersburg in the Seventeenth district. A. S. McClure, the Republican candidate in the Seventeenth district, was a pronounced free silver man and failed of re-election.

The Republicans elect the following:
First district—W. B. Shattuc, Cincinnati.
Second—J. H. Bromwell, Cincinnati.
Third—R. M. Nevin, Dayton.
Sixth—Seth W. Brown, Lebanon.
Seventh—W. L. Weaver, Springfield.
Eighth—Archibald Lybrand, Delaware.
Ninth—J. H. Southard, Toledo.
Tenth—L. J. Fenton, West Union.
Eleventh—C. H. Grosvenor, Athens.
Twelfth—D. K. Watson, Columbus.
Fourteenth—W. S. Kerr, Mansfield.
Fifteenth—H. C. Vanvorhis, Zanesville.
Sixteenth — Lorenzo Danford, St. Clairsville.
Eighteenth—R. W. Taylor, Lisbon.
Nineteenth—S. A. Northway, Ashtabula.
Twentieth—C. B. Beach, Cleveland.
Twenty-first—T. E. Burton, Cleveland.

When the present Ohio delegation in congress of 19 Republicans and 2 Democrats was elected the state gave a Republican plurality of 137,000.

MARYLAND BY 40,000.

Senator Gorman Again Meets Defeat In His State.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4.—The Democrats of Maryland, under the leadership of Senator Gorman, have again tasted the bitterness of defeat. The almost phenomenal majority of 20,000 for Lowndes a year ago has been duplicated and perhaps exceeded, as with full returns from two-thirds of the state and half of the city the indications are that McKinley leads Bryan by 30,000, 20,000 of which has been contributed by Baltimore city, heretofore a Gibraltar for Democracy.

Five Republican congressmen have surely been elected, the only doubtful district at this writing being the First, in which Joshua W. Miles (Dem.) may be re-elected.

In the city an almost unanimously Republican council has been chosen.

LOUISIANA FOR BRYAN.

Carried State by 30,000—Democratic Congressmen Elected.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—Returns so far received make it absolutely certain that Bryan has carried the state by probably 20,000 plurality, and that the Democrats have elected congressmen as follows: All for silver:

First, General Adolph Meyers; Second, Judge R. C. Davey; Third, R. F. Broussard; Fourth, Henry W. Ogden; Fifth, S. F. Baird; Sixth, Samuel Robertson.

Missouri Strong for Bryan.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.—From reports received from the various county committeemen the Democrats have elected every congressman in the state outside of St. Louis. Democratic State Chairman Cook would give no details, but said he knew the state had gone Democratic by a big majority.

Volunteer Fireman Killed.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 4.—Oliver Courtney, son of the late Henry Courtney, millionaire member of the watch manufacturing firm of Swift & Courtney, has been killed while driving the engine of the Phœnix volunteer firemen to a fire.

Both Claim North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 4.—Bryan has carried the electoral vote of the state by majorities variously estimated at between 10,000 and 20,000. Holton, Republican chairman, however, claims the state for McKinley by between 8,000 and 10,000.

MANY DID NOT VOTE.

A Number of Government Officials Stayed In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—An unusual proportion of government officials in the higher offices remained in Washington and did not vote. The list included President Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurber, who were at the White House most of the day. Secretaries Olney (who lost his vote by a technicality of the law) and Morton, Solicitor General Holmes Conrad of Virginia, Assistant Attorney General Thomas, Assistant Secretaries Rockhill, Dabney and Sims and a number of bureau chiefs, some of whom, however, have lost their votes by reason of long residence in Washington.

Among those who would vote were Secretaries Francis, Herbert and Lamont, Postmaster General Wilson, Attorney General Harmon, Assistant Attorney General Whitney of New York, Assistant Secretary W. W. Baldwin of the state department, Assistant Secretaries Hamlin, Curtis and Wike of the treasury department, Comptroller Eckels, Assistant Secretary Reynolds and Assistant Attorney General Lionberger and Land Commissioner Lamoreaux of the interior department and Assistant Postmaster Generals Jones, Neilson, Craig and Maxwell.

Assistant Secretary McAdoo of the navy department went to New Jersey, but may find his right to vote has been lost. Civil Service Commissioner Proctor paired with a Kentucky free silver friend, and Commissioners Rice and Harlow voted in Albany and St. Louis respectively.

KENYUCKY BY 15,000.

The City of Louisville and State Go Republican.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 4.—It is only a question of majority in Kentucky for the state's electoral vote has gone for McKinley for a majority of probably 15,000, although Chairman Roberts of the Republican committee says it will reach 25,000. The city of Louisville and Jefferson county, with all but two precincts in, give McKinley a plurality of e1,636, elected a Republican mayor and other Republican officials by a majority a little less than that given the presidential electors.

In the First, Third, Sixth and Tenth conuressional districts, the result is in doubt with returns favoring the Republicans. Republicans have carried Fifth, Eighth and Eleventh districts while the Democrats claim but two victories, Clardy in the Second and Settle in the Seventh.

Bryan Probably Loses His State.

OMAHA, Nov. 4.—Returns from Nebraska precints are still very meagre but indicate that McKinley has carried Nebraska. Probably the six congressmen.

McKinley Gets Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 4.—It is believed that the Republicans elect the presidential electors by at least 1,000 majority, but Tunnell (Dem.) is probably elected governor.

Wisconsin Republican by 40,000.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 4.—McKinley's plurality in Wisconsin probably above 40,000. Republican state ticket all elected by good majorities.

NEW HAND UNDERSTOOD.

A Woman's Testimony as to the Value of a Knowledge of German.

It was just a little informal gathering of women, and as they sipped tea with their hats on and gossiped about church sociables and of the preponderance of girls among the babies that had recently arrived, one of them let fall a German expression.

"Oh, dear me! Do you speak German?" asked the tall woman from down east, who plumes herself upon having married a German broker and thinks she speaks German herself. "How delightful!"

"Certainly," said the stout woman who was addressed. "I should think I ought to. I lived in Germany for ten years before I was married. It is a very useful thing too. My husband does not speak German, but I remember one instance when the knowledge of just one little German word was of great help to him. You see, I always made it a practice to begin teaching German to my children when they were babies, and just teaching them one word at a time and saying that one word whenever it was appropriate until it was indelibly fixed in their memory. Now, when my last baby was beginning to walk, I wanted to teach her that the fire was hot, and so whenever she went near to it I would pull her away and point to the stove and say, 'Heis!' I said it a great many times, and by and by she learned that 'heis' meant hot. Now, one day my husband was breaking in a new man at his factory, and he wanted to warn him about some dangerous place. The man was a German, and my husband was at a loss as to how to make him understand until, all of a sudden he remembered having heard me instructing the baby. So he pointed to the place and called to the man, 'Heis!' 'Heis!' The man's face lit up, and he turned to my husband and exclaimed:

"'I understand you perfectly.'"—New York Sun.

TENNESSEE FOR BRYAN.

The Election of Governor Apparently In Doubt.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 4.—Additional returns though only partial show a large vote by both political parties for president, with the Democrats holding their own or increasing their majorities as compared with the vote of 1892. The best information obtainable at this hour is that Bryan has carried the state by a safe majority, without counting the upriver and back counties, which cannot be heard from.

The Republican committee admits that Bryan has carried the state. As between Taylor, Democrat, and Tillman, Republican, for governor, the vote is close and both parties claim a victory, with chances favoring Taylor. Figures cannot be given because returns from none of the counties are complete.

Michigan Gone Republican.

DETROIT, Nov. 4.—It is generally conceded that Michigan has gone Republican by from 25,000 to 50,000 plurality. Pingree is elected governor by a big majority.

Texas Goes For Bryan.

GALVESTON, Nov. 4.—The Galveston News concedes the election of Dryan and Sewall electors, also election of Culberson, silver Democrat, for governor.

The Result In New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—New York has gone Republican 20,000. New York city went Republican by 20,000. The legislature is Republican.

Died After He Voted.

MIDDLETON, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Charles Horton, a wealthy and aged resident of this city, went to the polls and voted for McKinley. He fell dead on his returning home.

A Massachusetts Banker Dead.

AMESBURY, Mass., Nov. 4.—William G. Ellis, head of the big Ellis Car company and president of the Amesbury National bank, is dead, aged 64 years.

Didn't Vote For Sewall.

BATH, Me., Nov. 4.—The Bath Republicans cast their votes straight, and Mr. McKinley led Mr. Sewall by 101 votes in the latter's own ward, and 752 in the city.

Langtry Divorce Trial Near.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Mr. Langtry, husband of Mrs. Lily Langtry, and other witnesses, have been summoned to appear for examination Nov. 9 in the action for divorce brought by Mrs. Langtry.

Big Bryan Majority In Colorado.

DENVER, Nov. 4.—Bryan has carried Colorado by 110,000 and silver congressmen are elected. Teller is sure of re-election.

California Gone Republican.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—California has gone Republican.

THE greatest blessing of the avalanche was the burying of Altgeld. That crimson-hued gentleman will now take his place in the rear of the top gallery.

COLUMBIANA county is all right. Faithful to the right it has shown its right to rebuke those demagogues who advised honest railroad men to become outlaws.

ALL hail to the honest money Democrats who forgot party long enough to remember patriotism. They will never regret it; their reward is sure. They have joined in a movement most commendable, and will share with satisfaction the prosperity of the nation.

FORESTALLING THIEVES.

Why Thomas A. Edison Patents Everything He Invents.

As Thomas A. Edison watched the pumping of the air from a glass tube in his laboratory a day or two ago, a man said to him:

"You patent every little thing you discover, don't you, Mr. Edison?"

"I do," said Mr. Edison, "and do you know why I do it?"

"I suppose you do it so you will reap the benefit of your discovery," was the reply.

"I thought you'd say that," said Mr. Edison, "and I don't suppose you will believe me when I tell you it isn't so. Nevertheless, I discover a great many things that I would be glad to give to the public for nothing, but I don't dare. I patent these things to save myself from defending lawsuits. There are a lot of sharks in this world who are continually on the lookout for new things, and when one of them hears of something new he hustles to the patent office to see if it is patented. If it isn't, he claims it as an original discovery and files his claim. Then he will turn right around and, like as not, begin a suit with the man who invented the thing for making or using it. The inventor will say: 'But I discovered this thing first. I am the inventor.' He is referred to the patent office, where he finds the official claim of original invention. The fact that the papers are filed long after he made his discovery does not help him, for all the other man does is to hire a fellow to swear that he made the discovery a month or two prior to the date the inventor claims. It sounds ridiculous, probably, but it is a fact that there are often races between the inventors and the sharks to reach the patent office, the sharks having had early information about the inventor's discovery. There are many such races and thousands of dollars depend on each one. What I say is literally true."—New Ideas.

Sore Throat or Tonsilitis.

This disease is found most frequently in young persons.

The symptoms are a chilly feeling with more or less aching pains in the back and limbs.

The fever rises very rapidly, especially the evening of the first day. The patient complains of soreness of the throat and difficulty in swallowing.

On examination, the tonsils are seen to be swollen and usually covered with little white points or spots about as large as a pin head. At times the tonsils are only very red and free from spots. The duration of the disease is from three to ten days.

TREATMENT: Give patient a brisk cathartic, keeping the bowels free all the time. Apply applications of some kind to the throat and give Tonsiline in doses of from a teaspoonful for an adult, down to five or ten drops for small children, as directed in table of doses. Using Tonsiline as a gargle—Tonsiline one part, water three parts—every half hour will hasten recovery. Children sometimes complain of severe earache, which can best be eased by dropping warm sweet oil into the ear every hour or two until relieved. Tonsiline is sold by all dealers. Two sizes, 25 and 50 cents.

OHIO GAVE 90,000.

Good Majority For McKinley In His Own State.

17 REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.

The Democrats Sure of Two of the Members and the Result In Two Districts In Doubt—Names of the Congressmen Elected.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4.—Late returns reduce McKinley's plurality to 90,000 and complete returns from the rural districts may reduce it to 80,000

The returns indicate the election of seventeen Republicans and two Democrats to congress and two districts in doubt. In the Fifth district David Meckison and F. B. Dewitt, Republican, both claim their election. In the Thirteenth district James A. Norton, Democrat, and S. R. Hrrris, both claim their election. The Democrats elected J. P. McLean of Greenville in the Fourth district and James McDowell of Millersburg in the Seventeenth district. A. S. McClure, the Republican candidate in the Seventeenth district, was a pronounced free silver man and failed of re-election.

The Republicans elect the following:

First district—W. B. Shattuc, Cincinnati.
Second—J. H. Bromwell, Cincinnati.
Third—R. M. Nevin, Dayton.
Sixth—Seth W. Brown, Lebanon.
Seventh—W. L. Weaver, Springfield.
Eighth—Archibald Lybrand, Delaware.
Ninth—J. H. Southard, Toledo.
Tenth—L. J. Fenton, West Union.
Eleventh—C. H. Grosvenor, Athens.
Twelfth—D. K. Watson, Columbus.
Fourteenth—W. S. Kerr, Mansfield.
Fifteenth—H. C. Vanvorhis, Zanesville.
Sixteenth—Lorenzo Danford, St. Clairsville.
Eighteenth—R. W. Taylor, Lisbon.
Nineteenth—S. A. Northway, Ashtabula.
Twentieth—C. B. Beach, Cleveland.
Twenty-first—T. E. Burton, Cleveland.

When the present Ohio delegation in congress of 19 Republicans and 2 Democrats was elected the state gave a Republican plurality of 127,000.

MARYLAND BY 40,000.

Senator Gorman Again Meets Defeat In His State.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4.—The Democrats of Maryland, under the leadership of Senator Gorman, have again tasted the bitterness of defeat. The almost phenomenal majority of 20,000 for Lowndes a year ago has been duplicated and perhaps exceeded, as with full returns from two-thirds of the state and half of the city the indications are that McKinley leads Bryan by 30,000, 20,000 of which has been contributed by Baltimore city, heretofore a Gibraltar for Democracy.

Five Republican congressmen have surely been elected, the only doubtful district at this writing being the First, in which Joshua W. Miles (Dem.) may be re-elected.

In the city an almost unanimously Republican council has been chosen.

LOUISIANA FOR BRYAN.

Carried State by 30,000—Democratic Congressmen Elected.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—Returns so far received make it absolutely certain that Bryan has carried the state by probably 20,000 plurality, and that the Democrats have elected congressmen as follows: All for silver:

First, General Adolph Meyers; Second, Judge R. C. Davey; Third, R. F. Broussard; Fourth, Henrry W. Ogden; Fifth, S. F. Baird; Sixth, Samuel Robertson.

Missouri Strong for Bryan.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.—From reports received from the various county committeemen the Democrats have elected every congressman in the state outside of St. Louis. Democratic State Chairman Cook would give no details, but said he knew the state had gone Democratic by a big majority.

Volunteer Fireman Killed.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 4.—Oliver Courtney, son of the late Henry Courtney, millionaire member of the watch manufacturing firm of Swift & Courtney, has been killed while driving the engine of the Phœnix volunteer firemen to a fire.

Both Claim North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 4.—Bryan has carried the electoral vote of the state by majorities variously estimated at between 10,000 and 20,000. Holton, Republican chairman, however, claims the state for McKinley by between 8,000 and 10,000.

MANY DID NOT VOTE.

A Number of Government Officials Stayed In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—An unusual proportion of government officials in the higher offices remained in Washington and did not vote. The list included President Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurber, who were at the White House most of the day. Secretaries Olney (who lost his vote by a technicality of the law) and Morton, Solicitor General Holmes Conrad of Virginia, Assistant Attorney General Thomas, Assistant Secretaries Rockhill, Dabney and Sims and a number of bureau chiefs, some of whom, however, have lost their votes by reason of long residence in Washington.

Among those who could vote were Secretaries Francis, Herbert and Lamont, Postmaster General Wilson, Attorney General Harmon, Assistant Attorney General Whitney of New York, Assistant Secretary W. W. Baldwin of the state department, Assistant Secretaries Hamlin, Curtis and Wike of the treasury department, Comptroller Eckels, Assistant Secretary Reynolds and Assistant Attorney General Lionberger and Land Commissioner Lamoreaux of the interior department and Assistant Postmaster Generals Jones, Neilson, Craig and Maxwell.

Assistant Secretary McAdoo of the navy department went to New Jersey, but may find his right to vote has been lost. Civil Service Commissioner Proctor paired with a Kentucky free silver friend, and Commissioners Rice and Harlow voted in Albany and St. Louis respectively.

KENYUCKY BY 15,000.

The City of Louisville and State Go Republican.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 4.—It is only a question of majority in Kentucky for the state's electoral vote has gone for McKinley for a majority of probably 15,000, although Chairman Roberts of the Republican committee says it will reach 25,000. The city of Louisville and Jefferson county, with all but two precincts in, give McKinley a plurality of 61,636, elected a Republican mayor and other Republican officials by a majority a little less than that given the presidential electors.

In the First, Third, Sixth and Tenth conuressional districts, the result is in doubt with returns favoring the Republicans. Republicans have carried Fifth, Eighth and Eleventh districts while the Democrats claim but two victories, Clardy in the Second and Settle in the Seventh.

Bryan Probably Loses His State.

OMAHA, Nov. 4.—Returns from Nebraska precints are still very meagre but indicate that McKinley has carried Nebraska. Probably the six congressmen.

McKinley Gets Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 4.—It is believed that the Republicans elect the presidential electors by at least 1,000 majority, but Tunnell (Dem.) is probably elected governor.

Wisconsin Republican by 40,000.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 4.—McKinley's plurality in Wisconsin probably above 40,000. Republican state ticket all elected by good majorities.

NEW HAND UNDERSTOOD.

A Woman's Testimony as to the Value of a Knowledge of German.

It was just a little informal gathering of women, and as they sipped tea with their hats on and gossiped about church sociables and of the preponderance of girls among the babies that had recently arrived, one of them let fall a German expression.

"Oh, dear me! Do you speak German?" asked the tall woman from down east, who plumes herself upon having married a German broker and thinks she speaks German herself. "How delightful!"

"Certainly," said the stout woman who was addressed. "I should think I ought to. I lived in Germany for ten years before I was married. It is a very useful thing too. My husband does not speak German, but I remember one instance when the knowledge of just one little German word was of great help to him. You see, I always made it a practice to begin teaching German to my children when they were babies, and just teaching them one word at a time and saying that one word whenever it was appropriate until it was indelibly fixed in their memory. Now, when my last baby was beginning to walk, I wanted to teach her that the fire was hot, and so whenever she went near to it I would pull her away and point to the stove and say, 'Heis!' I said it a great many times, and by and by she learned that 'heis' meant hot. Now, one day my husband was breaking in a new man at his factory, and he wanted to warn him about some dangerous place. The man was a German, and my husband was at a loss as to how to make him understand until, all of a sudden he remembered having heard me instructing the baby. So he pointed to the place and called to the man, 'Heis! 'Heis!' The man's face lit up, and he turned to my husband and exclaimed:

"'I understand you perfectly.'"—New York Sun.

TENNESSEE FOR BRYAN.

The Election of Governor Apparently In Doubt.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 4.—Additional returns though only partial show a large vote by both political parties for president, with the Democrats holding their own or increasing their majorities as compared with the vote of 1892. The best information obtainable at this hour is that Bryan has carried the state by a safe majority, without counting the upriver and back counties, which cannot be heard from.

The Republican committee admits that Bryan has carried the state. As between Taylor, Democrat, and Tillman, Republican, for governor, the vote is close and both parties claim a victory, with chances favoring Taylor. Figures cannot be given because returns from none of the counties are complete.

Michigan Gone Republican.

DETROIT, Nov. 4.—It is generally conceded that Michigan has gone Republican by from 25,000 to 50,000 plurality. Pingree is elected governor by a big majority.

Texas Goes For Bryan.

GALVESTON, Nov. 4.—The Galveston News concedes the election of Dryan and Sewall electors, also election of Culberson, silver Democrat, for governor.

The Result In New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—New York has gone Republican 20,000. New York city went Republican by 20,000. The legislature is Republican.

Died After He Voted.

MIDDLETON, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Charles Horton, a wealthy and aged resident of this city, went to the polls and voted for McKinley. He fell dead on his returning home.

A Massachusetts Banker Dead.

AMESBURY, Mass., Nov. 4.—William G. Ellis, head of the big Ellis Car company and president of the Amesbury National bank, is dead, aged 64 years.

Didn't Vote For Sewall.

BATH, Me., Nov. 4.—The Bath Republicans cast their votes straight, and Mr. McKinley led Mr. Sewall by 101 votes in the latter's own ward, and 752 in the city.

Langtry Divorce Trial Near.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Mr. Langtry, husband of Mrs. Lily Langtry, and other witnesses, have been summoned to appear for examination Nov. 9 in the action for divorce brought by Mrs. Langtry.

MAJ. M'KINLEY.

Bryan Defeated by Ohio's Political Napoleon.

BIG ELECTORAL MAJORITY.

The Silver Champion Lost His Own State of Nebraska.

THE RETURNS YET INCOMPLETE.

Ohio Gave the Canton Man a Majority of About 90,000—Pennsylvania Went for the Major by About 300,000. West Virginia and Maryland Gave Their Electoral Votes to the Republicans—A Big Majority In the House Against Free Silver—Pingree Elected Governor of Michigan—Altgeld Beaten by Tanner In Illinois—How the Rival Presidential Candidates Received the Returns and Cast Their Votes.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The returns indicate the probable election of McKinley and Hobart, although returns are so meager from a number of doubtful states that this conclusion can only be reached by an estimate based upon the gains and losses. The best estimates obtainable indicate that Maine and Vermont have given majorities somewhat reduced from the September elections; that New Hampshire gives about 20,000; Massachusetts about 120,000 and Rhode Island and Connecticut proportionate majorities, all for McKinley; New York is estimated at above 250,000 and Pennsylvania at 300,000.

Maryland has been carried for the Republican candidate for president by a majority exceeding 20,000 and Delaware is Republican, although the plurality is not likely to exceed 1,000. The returns from West Virginia are not sufficent to justify the claim of either party. Ohio has given a very large Republican plurality and Kentucky is apparently assured to the McKinley column, although later returns may not justify this claim.

Tennessee seems to have been carried for Bryan, notwithstanding the confident assertions to the contrary of the Republican managers, and the same is probably true of North Carolina. Indiana and Michigan, as well as Minnesota indicate heavy Republican gains and a strong probability that they have gone for McKinley. Illinois will give McKinley over 100,000 plurality and Nebraska and North and South Dakota are very close and still in doubt. Wyoming seems to have gone for McKinley.

The returns from the Pacific coast states are too meager to justify and claim respecting them. The states of Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Colorado, Nevada, Montana and Idaho may safely be placed in the Bryan column. The returns from Kansas and Texas are scattering and indicate nothing, although heavy Republican gains are reported from Dallas and Galveston.

Later returns seem to indicate that West Virginia, Michigan and Kentucky can be added to the Republican column.

National Committeeman E. C. Wall and State Central Chairman George W. Peck of the Democratic party conceded that Wisconsin has gone Republican by between 50,000 and 75,000.

DALLAS, Nov. 4.—General Huston has telegraphed Mark Hanna that if present ratio of gain is maintained McKinley will carry Texas by 50,000 plurality.

HOW McKINLEY GOT RETURNS.

His Stenographer Read Them Aloud In the Library.

CANTON, O., Nov. 4.—Major McKinley spent election day afternoon with Chairman Hanna and his party, who, with the local committee, was photographed on the McKinley porch with the major as the central figure. At 4 o'clock Mr. Hanna and his associates left for Cleveland, Mrs. McKinley accompanying him to the train. Throughout the day and evening personal telegrams came from all directions, showing cheering assurances. At 6 o'clock definite returns began to come in and preparations were made for reading them aloud in the McKinley library, the doors being open to all who chose to come in. The major sat at his desk smoking a dry cigar, listening attentively to each bulletin, but showing no outward concern as to the result. His stenographer, Mr. Cooper, read the story from the steady stream of returns in a loud voice.

There was special interest at the McKinley home in the major's precinct, which is nominally Democratic, and a message that he had carried it by 205 to 157 was received with much satisfaction. At 7 o'clock Major McKinley retired for his supper, while the receiving of returns proceeded. Up to that time he had made no comment on the returns further than to say that the bulk of them came from the east thus far. In the parlor, across the hall, Mrs. McKinley and her near relatives and friends received the returns. It was a trying ordeal for her, as she had been in bed with the grippe up to early evening, but was determined to be about.

By 8 o'clock the character of private dispatches and general returns reaching the McKinley home were such that a feeling of absolute confidence took possession of those centered in the major's library. The officials at the Chicago headquarters sent frequent private messages to Major McKinley, each one swelling the total of states certain for the Republican candidate.

The detailed returns which were read as they came appeared to bear out the claims from headquarters, and the spirit of victory achieved was on every lip. Governor McKinley had joined his wife and aged mother in the parlor across the hall, which was closed up to the general public. At 9 o'clock the major emerged from the parlor and handed Mr. Cooper a private dispatch just received to be read. It was from Garrett A. Hobart, vice presidential candidate, who at this early hour felt that victory was won and telegraphed his congratulations.

There was a round of applause from the group within the library as Mr. Hobart's word were read. Soon thereafter Major McKinley came from the parlor and joined the crowd in the outer room. His face now wore unmistakable looks of satisfaction, and he smiled and chatted with those about him on the favorable character of the reports. He was not yet ready, however, to express his own judgment on the result, although it was evident he shared the general feeling of confidence that he had carried the day. He spoke with surprise at the definiteness of the returns at this early hour, and attributed to the perfected methods employed in getting and handling the returns.

At 1:30 o'clock Major McKinley greeted a crowd of the ladies who came to congratulate him and Mrs. McKinley. The ladies expressed their feeling with hearty hand-shakes and demonstrative expressions. The major was in happy mood and received the congratulations with a pleasant remark to each of the callers. To none of them, however, did he give any indication that he was convinced of his election.

He turned back to the library and shook his head disapprovingly at the efforts to have him express his belief that the fight was won. He would reach no premature judgment, he said, and up to that time none of the congratulatory telegrams had been answered by him.

The returns were interrupted by the reading of a stirring personal telegram from Chairman Mark Hanna at Cleveland to McKinley.

At 12:30 McKinley received a tremendous ovation from his Canton townspeople. He took a position on top of the porch of his residence and waived his salutations to the enthusiastic concourse. The midnight was light as by hundreds of flambeau and blazing fires of red and green. Major Mc-

MAJOR M'KINLEY RECEIVING MESSAGES IN HIS LIBRARY.

Kinley made no address. For an hour the remarkable spectacle proceeded. The whistles of all the factories joined in one long continued screech which echoed throughout the town. Mingled with this was the booming of cannon, the firing of guns and pistols, and the shouts from thousands of throats. The crowd was massed solidly for three squares down Market street.

The elation of victory spread though Canton early in the evening. It found expression in a surging crowd on courthouse square. Tin horns, whistles, whistling rattles and other instruments of discord were abroad. Others held forth on every side with oratory, and the praises of the Canton candidate were on every lip. Large stereopticon bulletins gave the details of the swelling McKinley tide to the eager multitude.

There was comparative quiet in front of the McKinley home as the crowd remaintained down town. The ladies who heard the returns in the McKinley parlor included Mrs. McKinley, Mother McKinley, Mrs. Duncan, the major's sister, Miss Helen McKinley, Miss Mabel McKinley, Mrs. Maria Saxton and Mrs. Marshal Barber, sister of Mrs. McKinley.

Bryan Carried Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 4.—Bryan and Sewall carried Florida by a majority over McKinley closely estimated at 13,000 to 14,500 against a majority of 18,900 for Bloxham (Dem.) for governor over Sunby.

Vermont Republican by 30,000.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 4.—Vermont is Republican by 30,000.

Allegheny county will send fifteen Republicans and one Democrat to the next legislature. In this number will be several new faces. There should have been sixteen Republican members in the lower house, but the Fourth district was given up to aid C. L. Magee in securing the Democratic indorsement in the Forty-third senatorial district. Two new senators will be found on the roll from this county.

Crow is elected sheriff of Philadelphia by 19,000.

HOW M'KINLEY VOTED.

He Stood Up In Line With Sons of Toil at Canton.

CANTON, O., Nov. 4.—Major McKinley took his place in the line and the systematic march of the Australian balloting proceeded in truly democratic fashion. Ahead of Major McKinley was a swarthy faced workingman whose hands showed he had just laid down his tools. With some confusion he greeted the major and offered to yield his place, but the offer was declined with a whisper in the man's ear which made him beam.

"William McKinley, 723 North Market street," called the inspector just as the clock marked 9. The major stepped forward and received his ballot, a huge sheet with eight horizontal tickets, the first one being Republican, headed with his own name. He moved through the enclosure to the curtained booths in the rear and stepped into the first one. He was in no hurry. Adjusting his eyeglasses, he scrutinized the ticket carefully. For just one minute and 18 seconds he went over the names.

Then, marking the Republican ticket at the head, indicating a straight Republican vote, he came from the booth and handed the ballot to the official in charge of the box. As he emerged from the place there was another cheer from those outside, another kindly acknowledgment and then, having exercised his American privilege as a voter, Major McKinley and his brother walked down to Tuscarawas street to greet the whitehaired mother, 88 years old, who is a keen observer of the scenes in which her son is playing so large a part.

Virginia For Bryan.

RICHMOND, Nov. 4.—State Chairman J. Taylor Ellyson says: "Virginia will go for Bryan by half her usual majority. The reduction is due to the new system of voting."

New Jersey Republican.

TRENTON, Nov. 4.—Revised estimates, based on the retuens already in, give McKinley New Jersey by 57,750.

Governor Altgeld Defeated.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Illinois has gone Republican by 100,000. Tanner is elected governor over Altgeld.

Minnesota Gone Republican.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 4.—Minnesota is surely Republican.

Bryan Carries Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 4.—Indications are that Bryan has carried the state by at least 10,000.

HOW BRYAN HEARD THE NEWS.

He Received the Returns In a Room at His Home.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 4.—Mr. Bryan received the election returns last night at his home over a special wire. He remained during the evening in his private room in the second story of his house, leaving the first floor to the newspaper correspondents. He told them if he had any communications to make he would notify them. He spent the afternoon sleeping and was very little disturbed by callers.

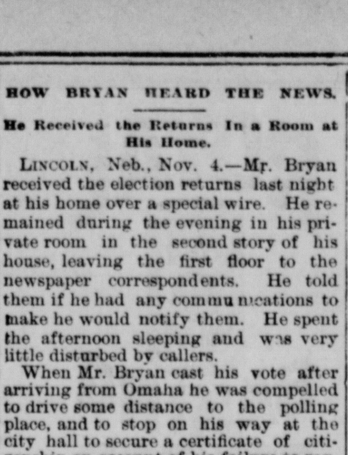
When Mr. Bryan cast his vote after arriving from Omaha he was compelled to drive some distance to the polling place, and to stop on his way at the city hall to secure a certificate of citizenship on account of his failure to register beforehand. He was required to take oath at this place, giving the number of his residence and to the effect that he had lived in the state for more than a year, in the county of Lancaster for more than four months, and in the Fifth ward for more than ten days, that he was a qualified voter and that his failure to register was due to his absence from the state.

He then proceeded to the engine house, in precinct A of the Fifth ward, where he was given a ballot, retired to his booth and returning to the voting place, cast his ballot in his order.

"Sure you've got the right electors?" queried one of the judges as the big ballot was punched into the box and as the name of W. J. Bryan was announced. "I'll take the chances on that," responded the presidential candidate.

When Mr. Bryan was about to vote one of the election challengers raised his voice to suggest that "as a mark of respect of your fellow citizens we all take off our hats."

The suggestion met with the unanimous response of the crowd of perhaps 200 men who stood outside the roped inclosure which held the election functionaries. The casting of the ballot was received with applause, and, after shaking hands with the election official nearest him, Mr. Bryan wedged his way out through the crowd, dodging the engine horses and again taking his seat in his carriage he was driven to his home.



MRS. BRYAN READING TELEGRAMS TO HER HUSBAND.

Mr. Bryan's home-coming was a modest ovation. He was met at the railroad station by a large escort of the Bryan home guards, consisting largely of farmers, who received him with a shout of welcome as he descended from the steps of his carriage, the accompanying band playing "Home, Sweet Home." The guard and a miscellaneous concourse of people followed in procession as the carriage wound its way through the streets. The sidewalks were lined with people and there were many shouts along the way for the Democratic standard-bearer, interspersed quite frequently with cries for his opponent.

It was indeed an imposing home coming when William J. Bryan reached his residence. A large number of his neighbors and friends were assembled in front of the house to receive him, and as the procession drew up before these the Bryan home guard formed a line reaching from the street to his door. The band started the air which the nominee has asked to be the campaign air, "Home, Sweet Home," and when at last he reached the house a mighty shout went up from over a thousand throats. He then made a short speech.

THE HOUSE REPUBLICAN.

Chairman Babcock Claims a Majority of Over 100 Against Silver.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Chairman Babcock, Republican congressional committee, claims 100 majority against silver in the next house.

The next congress will stand Republicans, 233; Democrats, 111, and 13 independent, made up of Populist and free silver Republicans.

Republican Chairman Babcock says: "The Fifty-fifth cougress will contain nearly, if not as many Republican members as did the Fifty-fourth. I believe that the senate will a have good working sound money majority, and I feel confident that the decisive verdict of the people will bring into line many senators who have hitherto wavered in regard to the silver question and have cast their votes with the silver party. Mr. McKinley will have behind him not only a sound money house but a sound money senate as well, both thoroughly committed to a protective tariff."

Maine Republican by 40,000.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 4.—The election in Maine proved one of the quietest in the state's history. Generally the returns showed a falling off in the Democratic vote and a slight increase in the Republican vote, which accounts in a great measure for a heavy Republican plurality, estimated at 40,000.

Kansas Is In Doubt.

TOPEKA, Nov. 5.—Kansas is in doubt. There are no returns whatever from the state, and it is impossible to make a prediction of any character concerning the result. The officials of the various state headquarters positively refuse to give estimates.

Mississippi 50,000 Democratic.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 4.—Mississippi gives Bryan a majority of 50,000. The vote for Watson will not exceed 10,000. The seven Democratic candidates for congressmen elected by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 5,000.

Indiana Gone Republican.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—Indiana has gone Republican by a small majority.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

And the next day it rained.

The polling booths used in the election were returned to city hall today.

A number of young men of this city have secured positions in the Findlay potteries, and will leave shortly for that place.

The judges of election went to Lisbon this morning with the poll books containing the full vote of the city and township.

As a result of an election bet Spot Laughlin will wheel Bottles McKinnon over the principal streets of the city in a wheelbarrow.

Logan Smith, of California hollow, lost his pocketbook on the street Saturday evening. It contained a considerable amount of money.

Edward Aley, who is employed in the LaBelle pottery, of Wheeling is in the city the guest of his parents. He came up to vote for McKinley.

The pulpit for the new Lutheran church arrived here yesterday afternoon. The seats have been shipped, but are not expected before next week.

The dance of the Sebring pottery employes began at 2 o'clock, and they are now enjoying themselves to the utmost. The dance will be continued until a late hour.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Will Kinsey, yesterday, a son. Will says he is going to name his heir McKinley in honor of the triumph of the major and the Republican party.

The police should make an effort to stop the young men who let their enthusiasm so far run away with them as to fire revolvers in the street. The practice is dangerous.

A well known Republican appeared on the street this morning wearing a white chrysanthemum, draped in becoming mourning. The gentleman is a believer in the eternal fitness of things.

A case of scarlet fever was reported to the health authorities yesterday afternoon. The victim is a child in the family of Samuel Derrington, who resides in an alley between Fifth and Sixth streets.

Mills Bennett, of Cadmus street, was taken dangerously ill, yesterday, at his home. He had a sharp pain in his side, and he was delirious for several hours. A physician was called and relieved him.

William Nath and family will leave this evening for Steubenville to attend the funeral of Henry McGinnis, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Nath, who died from injuries received in a railroad accident.

The Kanawha passed down from Pittsburg last evening. Ben Hur is due up today. River traffic is quiet this week. The stage of water is gradually lessening, and is too low for the transportation of coal.

The United States engineers who are making the survey of the Ohio between Pittsburg and Marietta have reached Economy. It will take nearly three months to complete the work at the rate the survey is progressing.

The announcement which places the farmers' institutes for the year says that Leetonia will be favored with a meeting Jan. 4 and 5. Prof. W. D. Gibbs, of Columbus, and George E. Scott, of Mt. Pleasant, are the speakers assigned.

G. C. Bauer, who recently severed his connection with the local light plant to take up a situation in Steubenville, has given up his latter place to accept a more remunerative one in Cincinnati. Mr. Bauer was in the city yesterday to cast a vote.

The calesthenic classes at Turner hall are in a very flourishing condition, and new members are being constantly added. Will Liebschner, who is acting as instructor during the absence of Will Hertel, is having remarkable success with his pupils.

A leading Democrat remarked this morning, "I am glad it's over. Of course we expected to win, but we didn't, and there is nothing to do but settle down to it. I don't know but what my property over the river will be more valuable anyway. I hope so at least."

A fight attracted a large crowd to Walnut street, near Robinson, late last night. A potter told a friend in the afternoon that he had cast his ballot for McKinley, and informed another friend that Bryan was his man. The fight grew out of an attempt to unravel the tangle.

A horse driven by a farmer named Miller fell through the trestle over the Eighth street culvert last evening while coming into the city. Considerable difficulty was experienced in extricating the animal from its uncomfortable position. The horse was injured about the legs.

Attorney W. B. Hill, who was one of the clerks in the the first precinct of the Second ward yesterday, in keeping count of the votes cast made over 75,000 tallies. In other precincts, where a greater vote was cast, a proportionately large number of tallies were made.

When the election returns began to come in at the Grand, during the performance, a Bryanite yelled he would like to wager a certain amount the candidate of his choice would be elected. In a twinkling he was surrounded by a throng of Republicans who flashed bills in his face. The fellow, however, took water at once, and decided he did not want to bet.

MAJ. M'KINLEY.

Bryan Defeated by Ohio's Political Napoleon.

BIG ELECTORAL MAJORITY.

The Silver Champion Lost His Own State of Nebraska.

THE RETURNS YET INCOMPLETE.

Ohio Gave the Canton Man a Majority of About 90,000—Pennsylvania Went for the Major by About 300,000. West Virginia and Maryland Gave Their Electoral Votes to the Republicans—A Big Majority In the House Against Free Silver—Pingree Elected Governor of Michigan—Altgeld Beaten by Tanner In Illinois—How the Rival Presidential Candidates Received the Returns and Cast Their Votes.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The returns indicate the probable election of McKinley and Hobart, although returns are so meager from a number of doubtful states that this conclusion can only be reached by an estimate based upon the gains and losses. The best estimates obtainable indicate that Maine and Vermont have given majorities somewhat reduced from the September elections; that New Hampshire gives about 20,000; Massachusetts about 120,000 and Rhode Island and Connecticut proportionate majorities, all for McKinley; New York is estimated at above 250,000 and Pennsylvania at 300,000.

Maryland has been carried for the Republican candidate for president by a majority exceeding 20,000 and Delaware is Republican, although the plurality is not likely to exceed 1,000. The returns from West Virginia are not sufficent to justify the claim of either party. Ohio has given a very large Republican plurality and Kentucky is apparently assured to the McKinley column, although later returns may not justify this claim.

Tennessee seems to have been carried for Bryan, notwithstanding the confident assertions to the contrary of the Republican managers, and the same is probably true of North Carolina. Indiana and Michigan, as well as Minnesota indicate heavy Republican gains and a strong probability that they have gone for McKinley. Illinois will give McKinley over 100,000 plurality and Nebraska and North and South Dakota are very close and still in doubt. Wyoming seems to have gone for McKinley.

The returns from the Pacific coast states are too meager to justify and claim respecting them. The states of Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Colorado, Nevada, Montana and Idaho may safely be placed in the Bryan column. The returns from Kansas and Texas are scattering and indicate nothing, although heavy Republican gains are reported from Dallas and Galveston.

Later returns seem to indicate that West Virginia, Michigan and Kentucky can be added to the Republican column.

National Committeeman E. C. Wall and State Central Chairman George W. Peck of the Democratic party conceded that Wisconsin has gone Republican by between 50,000 and 75,000.

DALLAS, Nov. 4.—General Huston has telegraphed Mark Hanna that if present ratio of gain is maintained McKinley will carry Texas by 50,000 plurality.

HOW McKINLEY GOT RETURNS.

His Stenographer Read Them Aloud In the Library.

CANTON, O., Nov. 4.—Major McKinley spent election day afternoon with Chairman Hanna and his party, who, with the local committee, was photographed on the McKinley porch with the major as the central figure. At 4 o'clock Mr. Hanna and his associates left for Cleveland, Mrs. McKinley accompanying him to the train. Throughout the day and evening personal telegrams came from all directions, showing cheering assurances. At 6 o'clock definite returns began to come in and preparations were made for reading them aloud in the McKinley library, the doors being open to all who chose to come in. The major sat at his desk smoking a dry cigar, listening attentively to each bulletin, but showing no outward concern as to the result. His stenographer, Mr. Cooper, read the story from the steady stream of returns in a loud voice.

There was special interest at the McKinley home in the major's precinct, which is nominally Democratic, and a message that he had carried it by 205 to 157 was received with much satisfaction. At 7 o'clock Major McKinley retired for his supper, while the receiving of returns proceeded. Up to that time he had made no comment on the returns further than to say that the bulk of them came from the east thus far. In the parlor, across the hall, Mrs. McKinley and her near relatives and friends received the returns. It was a trying ordeal for her, as she had been in bed with the grippe up to early evening, but was determined to be about.

By 8 o'clock the character of private dispatches and general returns reaching the McKinley home were such that a feeling of absolute confidence took possession of those centered in the major's library. The officials at the Chicago headquarters sent frequent private messages to Major McKinley, each one swelling the total of states certain for the Republican candidate.

The detailed returns which were read as they came appeared to bear out the claims from headquarters, and the spirit of victory achieved was on every lip. Governor McKinley had joined his wife and aged mother in the parlor across the hall, which was closed up to the general public. At 9 o'clock the major emerged from the parlor and handed Mr. Cooper a private dispatch just received to be read. It was from Garrett A. Hobart, vice presidential candidate, who at this early hour felt that victory was won and telegraphed his congratulations.

There was a round of applause from the group within the library as Mr. Hobart's word were read. Soon thereafter Major McKinley came from the parlor and joined the crowd in the outer room. His face now wore unmistakable looks of satisfaction, and he smiled and chatted with those about him on the favorable character of the reports. He was not yet ready, however, to express his own judgment on the result, although it was evident he shared the general feeling of confidence that he had carried the day. He spoke with surprise at the definiteness of the returns at this early hour, and attributed to the perfected methods employed in getting and handling the returns.

At 1:30 o'clock Major McKinley greeted a crowd of the ladies who came to congratulate him and Mrs. McKinley. The ladies expressed their feeling with hearty hand-shakes and demonstrative expressions. The major was in happy mood and received the congratulations with a pleasant remark to each of the callers. To none of them, however, did he give any indication that he was convinced of his election.

He turned back to the library and shook his head disapprovingly at the efforts to have him express his belief that the fight was won. He would reach no premature judgment, he said, and up to that time none of the congratulatory telegrams had been answered by him.

The returns were interrupted by the reading of a stirring personal telegram from Chairman Mark Hanna at Cleveland to McKinley.

At 12:30 McKinley received a tremendous ovation from his Canton townspeople. He took a position on top of the porch of his residence and waived his salutations to the enthusiastic concourse. The midnight was light as by hundreds of flambeau and blazing fires of red and green. Major McKinley made no address. For an hour the remarkable spectacle proceeded. The whistles of all the factories joined in one long continued screech which echoed throughout the town. Mingled with this was the booming of cannon, the firing of guns and pistols, and the shouts from thousands of throats. The crowd was massed solidly for three squares down Market street.

MAJOR M'KINLEY RECEIVING MESSAGES IN HIS LIBRARY.

The elation of victory spread though Canton early in the evening. It found expression in a surging crowd on courthouse square. Tin horns, whistles, whistling rattles and other instruments of discord were abroad. Others held forth on every side with oratory, and the praises of the Canton candidate were on every lip. Large stereopticon bulletins gave the details of the swelling McKinley tide to the eager multitude.

There was comparative quiet in front of the McKinley home as the crowd remaintained down town. The ladies who heard the returns in the McKinley parlor included Mrs. McKinley, Mother McKinley, Mrs. Duncan, the major's sister, Miss Helen McKinley, Miss Mabel McKinley, Mrs. Maria Saxton and Mrs. Marshal Barber, sister of Mrs. McKinley.

Bryan Carried Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 4.—Bryan and Sewall carried Florida by a majority over McKinley closely estimated at 13,000 to 14,500 against a majority of 18,900 for Bloxham (Dem.) for governor over Sunby.

Vermont Republican by 30,000.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 4.—Vermont is Republican by 30,000.

Allegheny county will send fifteen Republicans and one Democrat to the next legislature. In this number will be several new faces. There should have been sixteen Republican members in the lower house, but the Fourth district was given up to aid C. L. Magee in securing the Democratic indorsement in the Forty-third senatorial district. Two new senators will be found on the roll from this county.

Crow is elected sheriff of Philadelphia by 19,000.

HOW M'KINLEY VOTED.

He Stood Up In Line With Sons of Toil at Canton.

CANTON, O., Nov. 4.—Major McKinley took his place in the line and the systematic march of the Australian balloting proceeded in truly democratic fashion. Ahead of Major McKinley was a swarthy faced workingman whose hands showed he had just laid down his tools. With some confusion he greeted the major and offered to yield his place, but the offer was declined with a whisper in the man's ear which made him beam.

"William McKinley, 723 North Market street," called the inspector just as the clock marked 9. The major stepped forward and received his ballot, a huge sheet with eight horizontal tickets, the first one being Republican, headed with his own name. He moved through the enclosure to the curtained booths in the rear and stepped into the first one. He was in no hurry. Adjusting his eyeglasses, he scrutinized the ticket carefully. For just one minute and 18 seconds he went over the names.

Then, marking the Republican ticket at the head, indicating a straight Republican vote, he came from the booth and handed the ballot to the official in charge of the box. As he emerged from the place there was another cheer from those outside, another kindly acknowledgment and then, having exercised his American privilege as a voter, Major McKinley and his brother walked down to Tuscarawas street to greet the whitehaired mother, 88 years old, who is a keen observer of the scenes in which her son is playing so large a part.

Virginia For Bryan.

RICHMOND, Nov. 4.—State Chairman J. Taylor Ellyson says: "Virginia will go for Bryan by half her usual majority. The reduction is due to the new system of voting."

New Jersey Republican.

TRENTON, Nov. 4.—Revised estimates, based on the retuens already in, give McKinley New Jersey by 57,750.

Governor Altgeld Defeated.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Illinois has gone Republican by 100,000. Tanner is elected governor over Altgeld.

Minnesota Gone Republican.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 4.—Minnesota is surely Republican.

Bryan Carries Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 4.—Indications are that Bryan has carried the state by at least 10,000.

HOW BRYAN HEARD THE NEWS.

He Received the Returns In a Room at His Home.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 4.—Mr. Bryan received the election returns last night at his home over a special wire. He remained during the evening in his private room in the second story of his house, leaving the first floor to the newspaper correspondents. He told them if he had any communications to make he would notify them. He spent the afternoon sleeping and was very little disturbed by callers.

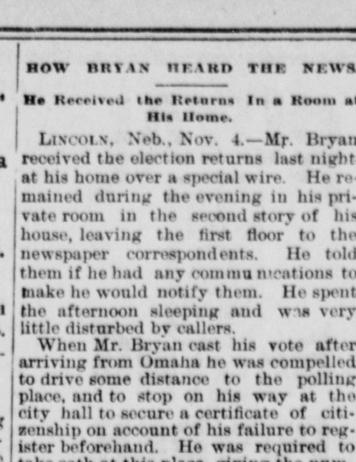
When Mr. Bryan cast his vote after arriving from Omaha he was compelled to drive some distance to the polling place, and to stop on his way at the city hall to secure a certificate of citizenship on account of his failure to register beforehand. He was required to take oath at this place, giving the number of his residence and to the effect that he had lived in the state for more than a year, in the county of Lancaster for more than four months, and in the Fifth ward for more than ten days, that he was a qualified voter and that his failure to register was due to his absence from the state.

He then proceeded to the engine house, in precinct A of the Fifth ward, where he was given a ballot, retired to his booth and returning to the voting place, cast his ballot in his order.

"Sure you've got the right electors?" queried one of the judges as the big ballot was punched into the box and as the name of W. J. Bryan was announced. "I'll take the chances on that," responded the presidential candidate.

When Mr. Bryan was about to vote one of the election challengers raised his voice to suggest that "as a mark of respect of your fellow citizens we all take off our hats."

The suggestion met with the unanimous response of the crowd of perhaps 200 men who stood outside the roped inclosure which held the election functionaries. The casting of the ballot was received with applause, and, after shaking hands with the election official nearest him, Mr. Bryan wedged his way out through the crowd, dodging the engine horses and again taking his seat in his carriage he was driven to his home.



MRS. BRYAN READING TELEGRAMS TO HER HUSBAND.

Mr. Bryan's home-coming was a modest ovation. He was met at the railroad station by a large escort of the Bryan home guards, consisting largely of farmers, who received him with a shout of welcome as he descended from the steps of his carriage, the accompanying band playing "Home, Sweet Home." The guard and a miscellaneous concourse of people followed in procession as the carriage wound its way through the streets. The sidewalks were lined with people and there were many shouts along the way for the Democratic standard-bearer, interspersed quite frequently with cries for his opponent.

It was indeed an imposing home coming when William J. Bryan reached his residence. A large number of his neighbors and friends were assembled in front of the house to receive him, and as the procession drew up before these the Bryan home guard formed a line reaching from the street to his door. The band started the air which the nominee has asked to be the campaign air, "Home, Sweet Home," and when at last he reached the house a mighty shout went up from over a thousand throats. He then made a short speech.

THE HOUSE REPUBLICAN.

Chairman Babcock Claims a Majority of Over 100 Against Silver.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Chairman Babcock, Republican congressional committee, claims 100 majority against silver in the next house.

The next congress will stand Republicans, 233; Democrats, 111, and 13 independent, made up of Populist and free silver Republicans.

Republican Chairman Babcock says: "The Fifty-fifth congress will contain nearly, if not as many Republican members as did the Fifty-fourth. I believe that the senate will a have good working sound money majority, and I feel confident that the decisive verdict of the people will bring into line many senators who have hitherto wavered in regard to the silver question and have cast their votes with the silver party. Mr. McKinley will have behind him not only a sound money house but a sound money senate as well, both thoroughly committed to a protective tariff."

Maine Republican by 40,000.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 4.—The election in Maine proved one of the quietest in the state's history. Generally the returns showed a falling off in the Democratic vote and a slight increase in the Republican vote, which accounts in a great measure for a heavy Republican plurality, estimated at 40,000.

Kansas Is In Doubt.

TOPEKA, Nov. 5.—Kansas is in doubt. There are no returns whatever from the state, and it is impossible to make a prediction of any character concerning the result. The officials of the various state headquarters positively refuse to give estimates.

Mississippi 50,000 Democratic.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 4.—Mississippi gives Bryan a majority of 50,000. The vote for Watson will not exceed 10,000. The seven Democratic candidates for congressmen elected by majorities ranging from 1,600 to 5,000.

Indiana Gone Republican.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—Indiana has gone Republican by a small majority.

Caution about the Use and Selections of Spectacles

"Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of 14 inches from the eyes with ease and comfort; also will be able to read it with each eye separately. If unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the letters look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. The lenses sold in the cheap goods are of unequal density and have imperfectly formed surfaces. Continued use of these poorer lenses will result in positive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles of accomodation to supply the defects in the glass."

GEORGE MUST ANSWER

He Is Charged With Abusing His Wife.

THREW HER OUT OF A CHAIR

Then Ordered the Doctor to Leave the House—The Trustees and the Humane Society Stepped In and Heckathorn Will Be Tried Tomorrow.

George Heckathorn, a cooper living near the light plant, will be heard by Squire Morley tomorrow afternoon on a charge of abusing his wife.

Heckathorn has not in recent weeks been walking in the path of rectitude, and the other day went home very drunk. His wife has been ill for several months, suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, and was seated in a chair when the husband came in. It is charged that he threw her out of the chair, and injured her thigh so she is now very sick. The woman's cries brought neighbors to her assistance, and a doctor was called. Heckathorn compelled him to leave the house, and the township trustees took charge of the matter. A complaint was lodged with Squire Morley, and Heckathorn was arrested by Constable Bertele. He gave bail for $100, and will be heard tomorrow. The neighbors are indignant, and say he should be punished.

ECLIPSE WON.

Beaver Falls Could Not Score a Point Yesterday.

The Eclipse football eleven yesterday afternoon succeeded in winning their first game by defeating Beaver Falls 6 to 0. Neither side scored in the first half, and time was called with the ball in the center of the field. In the second half the home team began to buck the center repeatedly for large gains, and finally pushed McLane over the line for a touchdown, McCurran kicking goal. Beaver Falls worked hard after the kick off, and shoved the home team down the field to within 10 yards of the line, when Eclipse gained the ball on downs. It was punted by McCurran, and the game closed with the ball in the possession of Beaver Falls in the center of the field. The next game at home will be played Nov. 13, with the Salem team.

CONSOLATION MEETING.

The Bryanites Tell Each Other How It Was.

It was a sorrow-stricken crowd that assembled in the office of Doctor Ikirt this morning. They wanted to know what had happened and why it came about. A. H. Clark was there to tell them all that he had been deceived in the American people, while the rank and file looked on in amazement and drank in his wonderful words of comfort with a semblance of satisfaction. Tracy did not appear, but Joe Riley was present, and added to the lamentations. It was a consolation meeting, at which there was little consolation, the funeral ceremony, as it were, called to pronounce the last sad rites over the sunken remains of the emancipated Democratic donkey.

Edward Carson attempted last night to light the gas in a stove at the Cosmopolitan club, and wears a sore hand and arm as a result today. NO WORK FOR THEM.

The Employes of the Vodrey Company Wanted to Celebrate.

At a number of potteries the managers imagined the election was over and their employes would return to work, but they erred. Before noon scores of people had left the factories and were on the streets.

The employes of the Vodrey plant worked until 8:30, when someone started a parade. With horns tooting, they charged the office, and declared they wanted to celebrate. There was no other alternative, and the pottery was shut down.

MADE A HIT.

The News Review Coon Was the Popular Thing.

The NEWS REVIEW coon was the popular animal today. Perched on a fence and laughing gaily at the moon, he was seen in all parts of the city. There were about 5,000 of him on the street at noon, and he soon spread into the country. He appeared on the hats of enthusiasts, and covered the shirt fronts of many, all the while smiling because McKinley had won.

Dangers In Food Supplies.

A lecturer on cooking the other day made the surprising statement that the asylums are being filled with country people in much greater proportions than city people, mainly because they were more careless in regard to their food. While a diet of fat meats may be more characteristic of people living in rural districts, there are other dangers just as insidious, to which the residents of the big cities are subject. Scientific research is every day emphasizing the fact that man is what he eats.

Probably there have been no more active advocates of pure food than the manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder. The vigorous campaign against adulterations carried on by them was no doubt due in a large part to the fact that in scarcely any other division of food supplies are harmless ingredients used lavishly, as in the compounding of baking powders. The absolute purity of the Royal has become in the nature of an axiom, and its proprietors are naturally disposed to spread broadcast the doctrine of pure food. It has been claimed, without contradiction, that no other article of human food has ever received so many emphatic endorsements from the highest authorities.—Journal of Health.

Appraising Property

Sheriff Gill drove over from Lisbon this morning, and brought glad tidings of victory with him. This afternoon the sheriff appraised the property of Delia Morris, and that of Mrs. A. R. Bagley, of East End. The Morris property will be sold to satisfy a claim of $2,500.

OVER THE DARK RIVER

Peacefully Passed the Soul of James H. Goodwin.

HE DIED WITHOUT A STRUGGLE

A Few Minutes Before the End Came He Was Sitting In Bed Hearing the Glad Election News—A Second Attack of Apoplexy—Funeral Arrangements.

While the crowds were mad with excitement, and the city was a blaze of fire in honor of William McKinley, one man who loved and respected him and whose efforts have ever been in his behalf, was touched by the cold hand of death, and his life went out just as he learned that his friend was given the highest honor in the land.

When James H. Goodwin was stricken with apoplexy on Monday night, the attending physicians and his family were confident that he would recover. He rallied from the shock and was so much better yesterday afternoon that it was announced he was on a fair way to recovery. His condition was so favorable in the evening that he sat up in bed, and with his family enjoyed the news as it came over the wire. At midnight he smoked a cigar, and was laughing and chatting with his friends. Half an hour later he was dead. Without a moment's warning, Mr. Goodwin was seized with another attack, and died without a struggle. He looked fondly upon the family he had loved so well, and crossed the river without a murmur.

The sad news was at once sent to friends throughout the city, and becoming known on the streets, dampened the ardor of the crowds. They heard it with deep regret, for Mr. Goodwin was known to them all, and no one regretted it more than those who had known him best. Honest in conviction, and filled with a profound respect for his friends, he had the esteem of all. Clear headed and enterprising, he was numbered among the leading manufacturing potters of America. His voice was heard among the most influential and powerful at the annual meetings of the association, and important committee work was never done without the assistance of Mr. Goodwin.

From the time of his birth 50 years ago, Mr. Goodwin was a resident of this city. He was educated in the public schools, and at the age of 17 entered upon a business career that was eminently successful. After the death of his father he, with his brothers, Henry and George, founded the firm of Goodwin Bros., and continued the manufacture of pottery. They prospered and advanced, and many years had not passed before yellow ware gave way to white granite, and throughout the time which followed, improvement after improvement was made. American pottery owes much of its advancement to the untiring energy of Mr. Goodwin.

In 1871 Mr. Goodwin and Mary E. Bryant were married, and four children were born to the union, John S., Charles F., Mary A., and Euphemia H., the youngest daughter dying before she was beyond the bounds of infancy.

A strange incident in connection with the death of Mr. Goodwin is found in the fact that his father died 21 years ago yesterday, in precisely the same manner. He was an Englishman who came to this country in 1842, and settled at St. Louis. Then he went to Cincinnati, and eventually came to East Liverpool. He was employed with Benjamin Harker, Sr., and later built a pottery on the ground now occupied by the Baggot plant. In 1853 he sold his plant to the Baggotts and engaged in the real estate business; but leaving that in 1863, built the plant of the D. E. McNicol company. In 1870 he purchased an interest in a Trenton pottery, intending it for his sons. They disposed of it in 1872, and purchasing the property now owned by the Goodwin Pottery company, have operated it since that time.

A recognized trait in the character of Mr. Goodwin was the honesty with which he ever dealt with his employes. They one and all join in declaring that he was just at all times, and never allowed that petty tyranny so often found in large factories.

The funeral arrangements were completed this morning. Services will be held at the residence on Walnut street, at 1:30 o'clock next Friday afternoon. Dr. W. H. Locke, of Mansfield, and Doctor Huston, of this city, will be the ministers in attendance. The pallbearers will be George W. Thomas, B. M. Louthan, B. C. Simms, N. A. Frederick, William Cartwright and Homer Laughlin, Sr. Interment will be made in Riverview.

The wide acquaintance which Mr. Goodwin had with the leading manufacturing potters of the country was shown today by the many telegrams of condolence which reached the stricken family. That he was regarded with the highest esteem, each message bore ample testimony.

An Excellent Prospect.

There has not been a new case of diphtheria reported for several days, and every case in the city is at present improving.

CRIMINALS AT PLAY.

THE CRUEL WAYS IN WHICH THEY "AMUSE" THEMSELVES.

The Test In All Their Games Is the Ability to Bear Pain—In Italian Prisons Surgeons Are Always In Demand to Patch Up the "Players."

Mario Carara, a disciple of Cesare Lombroso, the Italian expert in criminal anthropology, has made a special study of the sports that criminals engage in. The innocent games of childhood, in the case of criminals, are tinctured with cruelty and sometimes accompanied by homicide.

Criminals skip the rope, but part of the game is to trip up the jumper and let him fall heavily upon the stone pavement.

Criminals play leapfrog, but the object of the game is that he who makes the "back" shall rise suddenly and violently just as the frog mounts and throw him to the ground.

The criminals play blind man's buff, but the man with the bandaged eyes carries a handkerchief bearing in one corner a jagged stone, a piece of hard, sharpened wood or a bit of iron. With this weapon he strikes those whom he pursues.

Another remarkable form of this game is for the blinded one to be struck by one or another of his companions if he fails to name the one that touches him. The penalty is not the innocent one of the children's game, but a blow so severe that a physician has often to be called in after a game is over, and occasionally the sufferer is disabled for some time.

It has been found in those Italian reformatories where prisoners are not kept in solitary confinement that prisoners' games are often accompanied with bloodshed, and that it is almost impossible to prevent cruelties. This is especially true where prisoners work together, for they secrete tools and use them as weapons in brutal sports.

In one of these games the player has in each hand a stick, having fixed in the end a keen metallic point. He interweaves his arms, revolving the sticks with rapidity, and the game is for another prisoner to thrust his head between the arms and endeavor to follow the revolutions of the sticks without being wounded. It usually happens that he receives 15 or 16 wounds and comes out with a bleeding head, while now and then mortal injuries are received.

The victim in another game has his eyes bandaged and places his palm upon a table, with fingers spread fanlike. Another criminal repeatedly strikes between the fingers with a pointed instrument. If he wounds a finger, then the two change places, and woe to the man who refuses the exchange. The game is dangerous, although the criminals assert that the wounds to the fingers are not deep or severe, because, they say, the metallic points are too short and do not penetrate far, a grim form of philosophy.

The sport of criminals is accompanied by characteristic craft. This is especially shown in the methods in which the newcomer is initiated into prison life. The novice is conducted into an improvised court chamber, where the judges are his fellow prisoners. He is placed upon a stand and gravely tried upon a pretended charge, and he has barely been condemned when the stand is suddenly drawn away, so that he is thrown violently upon the earth.

Many games necessarily imply resistance to pain as an absolute condition of success. For example, there is the game of "needles." One of the players places his closed fists upon the table, holding steadily two needles, one in each hand, the points being slightly exposed. It is the game then for a companion to strike with his own fists those of the other and becomes a question of endurance between the one who is pricked with the needles and the one whose fists are beaten by the other's knuckles.

There are contests in which the fingers and hands are deeply wounded, and the scars are an honorable distinction.

The characteristic feature of all these games, which are the recreation exclusively of criminals in prison, is the love of combat. If, as is held by experts, sports are the means of working off the superfluous activity of life, it is evident that superfluous activity, in the case of prisoners, is especially powerful. It has been noted in the case of prisoners that there is a prevalence of great agility and litheness, which Professor Lombroso considers a negative evidence of mental weakness, since it testifies to a greater development of the notorial centers at the expense of the other cerebral centers. But usually this physical energy is not properly used in the ordinary life of the criminal and finds outlet and enjoyment in sports.

Another characteristic of the games of criminals is the admiration shown for physical force, manifested in the docility with which the vanquished in such sports submit to the brutality of the victors, a thing observed among savages.

Finally the insensibility to pain exhibited in sports of criminals proves that such men are less acute in their physical senses as well as less sensitive to the pains of others, since what seems to others uselessly cruel is only the usual thing with criminals. As the drunkard, his taste hardened by alcohol, has need of a stimulant constantly stronger, so in the case of the criminal, the nervous system demands stimulants so strong that to the ordinary steady going individual they would be actually painful.—Pearson's Weekly.

GEORGE MUST ANSWER

He Is Charged With Abusing His Wife.

THREW HER OUT OF A CHAIR

Then Ordered the Doctor to Leave the House—The Trustees and the Humane Society Stepped In and Heckathorn Will Be Tried Tomorrow.

George Heckathorn, a cooper living near the light plant, will be heard by Squire Morley tomorrow afternoon on a charge of abusing his wife.

Heckathorn has not in recent weeks been walking in the path of rectitude, and the other day went home very drunk. His wife has been ill for several months, suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, and was seated in a chair when the husband came in. It is charged that he threw her out of the chair, and injured her thigh so she is now very sick. The woman's cries brought neighbors to her assistance, and a doctor was called. Heckathorn compelled him to leave the house, and the township trustees took charge of the matter. A complaint was lodged with Squire Morley, and Heckathorn was arrested by Constable Bertele. He gave bail for $100, and will be heard tomorrow. The neighbors are indignant, and say he should be punished.

ECLIPSE WON.

Beaver Falls Could Not Score a Point Yesterday.

The Eclipse football eleven yesterday afternoon succeeded in winning their first game by defeating Beaver Falls 6 to 0. Neither side scored in the first half, and time was called with the ball in the center of the field. In the second half the home team began to buck the center repeatedly for large gains, and finally pushed McLane over the line for a touchdown, McCurran kicking goal. Beaver Falls worked hard after the kick off, and shoved the home team down the field to within 10 yards of the line, when Eclipse gained the ball on downs. It was punted by McCurran, and the game closed with the ball in the possession of Beaver Falls in the center of the field. The next game at home will be played Nov. 13, with the Salem team.

CONSOLATION MEETING.

The Bryanites Tell Each Other How It Was.

It was a sorrow-stricken crowd that assembled in the office of Doctor Ikirt this morning. They wanted to know what had happened and why it came about. A. H. Clark was there to tell them all that he had been deceived in the American people, while the rank and file looked on in amazement and drank in his wonderful words of comfort with a semblance of satisfaction. Tracy did not appear, but Joe Riley was present, and added to the lamentations. It was a consolation meeting, at which there was little consolation, the funeral ceremony, as it were, called to pronounce the last sad rites over the sunken remains of the emancipated Democratic donkey.

TOO MUCH GAS,

But It Was of the Explosive Kind and Burned Deep.

Edward Carson attempted last night to light the gas in a stove at the Cosmopolitan club, and wears a sore hand and arm as a result today. The pipe leaked and enough gas had accumulated in the stove to cause an explosion of no mean proportions. Mr. Carson was painfully burned about the hands, and he lost some of his eyebrows.

NO WORK FOR THEM.

The Employes of the Vodrey Company Wanted to Celebrate.

At a number of potteries the managers imagined the election was over and their employes would return to work, but they erred. Before noon scores of people had left the factories and were on the streets.

The employes of the Vodrey plant worked until 8:30, when someone started a parade. With horns tooting, they charged the office, and declared they wanted to celebrate. There was no other alternative, and the pottery was shut down.

MADE A HIT.

The News Review Coon Was the Popular Thing.

The NEWS REVIEW coon was the popular animal today. Perched on a fence and laughing gaily at the moon, he was seen in all parts of the city. There were about 5,000 of him on the street at noon, and he soon spread into the country. He appeared on the hats of enthusiasts, and covered the shirt fronts of many, all the while smiling because McKinley had won.

HE IS AN ARTIST

Is Andrew McManus, the Telegraph Operator.

Mr. Andrew McManus handled the lightning ticker at the NEWS REVIEW office last night, giving the returns in a manner which made glad and happy the hearts of the staff of this paper. Mr. McManus is an artist in his special line of telegraphy, and he has the sincere thanks of the management for his clever work.

THE LATEST.

We Get 276 Electoral Votes With Four In Doubt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Returns from the country show that McKinley will have 276 electoral votes and Bryan 167. Four are still in doubt. Oregon, Kentucky, California, North Dakota, and Wyoming are for McKinley. Bryan carries Nebraska.

Dangers In Food Supplies.

A lecturer on cooking the other day made the surprising statement that the asylums are being filled with country people in much greater proportions than city people, mainly because they were more careless in regard to their food. While a diet of fat meats may be more characteristic of people living in rural districts, there are other dangers just as insidious, to which the residents of the big cities are subject. Scientific research is every day emphasizing the fact that man is what he eats.

Probably there have been no more active advocates of pure food than the manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder. The vigorous campaign against adulterations carried on by them was no doubt due in a large part to the fact that in scarcely any other division of food supplies are harmless ingredients used lavishly, as in the compounding of baking powders. The absolute purity of the Royal has become in the nature of an axiom, and its proprietors are naturally disposed to spread broadcast the doctrine of pure food. It has been claimed, without contradiction, that no other article of human food has ever received so many emphatic endorsements from the highest authorities.—Journal of Health.

Appraising Property

Sheriff Gill drove over from Lisbon this morning, and brought glad tidings of victory with him. This afternoon the sheriff appraised the property of Delia Morris, and that of Mrs. A. R. Bagley, of East End. The Morris property will be sold to satisfy a claim of $2,500.

OVER THE DARK RIVER

Peacefully Passed the Soul of James H. Goodwin.

HE DIED WITHOUT A STRUGGLE

A Few Minutes Before the End Came He Was Sitting In Bed Hearing the Glad Election News—A Second Attack of Apoplexy—Funeral Arrangements.

While the crowds were mad with excitement, and the city was a blaze of fire in honor of William McKinley, one man who loved and respected him and whose efforts have ever been in his behalf, was touched by the cold hand of death, and his life went out just as he learned that his friend was given the highest honor in the land.

When James H. Goodwin was stricken with apoplexy on Monday night, the attending physicians and his family were confident that he would recover. He rallied from the shock and was so much better yesterday afternoon that it was announced he was on a fair way to recovery. His condition was so favorable in the evening that he sat up in bed, and with his family enjoyed the news as it came over the wire. At midnight he smoked a cigar, and was laughing and chatting with his friends. Half an hour later he was dead. Without a moment's warning, Mr. Goodwin was seized with another attack, and died without a struggle. He looked fondly upon the family he had loved so well, and crossed the river without a murmur.

The sad news was at once sent to friends throughout the city, and becoming known on the streets, dampened the ardor of the crowds. They heard it with deep regret, for Mr. Goodwin was known to them all, and no one regretted it more than those who had known him best. Honest in conviction, and filled with a profound respect for his friends, he had the esteem of all. Clear headed and enterprising, he was numbered among the leading manufacturing potters of America. His voice was heard among the most influential and powerful at the annual meetings of the association, and important committee work was never done without the assistance of Mr. Goodwin.

From the time of his birth 50 years ago, Mr. Goodwin was a resident of this city. He was educated in the public schools, and at the age of 17 entered upon a business career that was eminently successful. After the death of his father he, with his brothers, Henry and George, founded the firm of Goodwin Bros., and continued the manufacture of pottery. They prospered and advanced, and many years had not passed before yellow ware gave way to white granite, and throughout the time which followed, improvement after improvement was made. American pottery owes much of its advancement to the untiring energy of Mr. Goodwin.

In 1871 Mr. Goodwin and Mary E. Bryant were married, and four children were born to the union, John S., Charles F., Mary A., and Euphemia H., the youngest daughter dying before she was beyond the bounds of infancy.

A strange incident in connection with the death of Mr. Goodwin is found in the fact that his father died 21 years ago yesterday, in precisely the same manner. He was an Englishman who came to this country in 1842, and settled at St. Louis. Then he went to Cincinnati, and eventually came to East Liverpool. He was employed with Benjamin Harker, Sr., and later built a pottery on the ground now occupied by the Baggot plant. In 1853 he sold his plant to the Baggotts and engaged in the real estate business: but leaving that in 1863, built the plant of the D. E. McNicol company. In 1870 he purchased an interest in a Trenton pottery, intending it for his sons. They disposed of it in 1872, and purchasing the property now owned by the Goodwin Pottery company, have operated it since that time.

A recognized trait in the character of Mr. Goodwin was the honesty with which he ever dealt with his employes. They one and all join in declaring that he was just at all times, and never allowed that petty tyranny so often found in large factories.

The funeral arrangements were completed this morning. Services will be held at the residence on Walnut street, at 1:30 o'clock next Friday afternoon. Dr. W. H. Locke, of Mansfield, and Doctor Huston, of this city, will be the ministers in attendance. The pallbearers will be George W. Thomas, B. M. Louthan, B. C. Simms, N. A. Frederick, William Cartwright and Homer Laughlin, Sr. Interment will be made in Riverview.

The wide acquaintance which Mr. Goodwin had with the leading manufacturing potters of the country was shown today by the many telegrams of condolence which reached the stricken family. That he was regarded with the highest esteem, each message bore ample testimony.

An Excellent Prospect.

There has not been a new case of diphtheria reported for several days, and every case in the city is at present improving.

CRIMINALS AT PLAY.

THE CRUEL WAYS IN WHICH THEY "AMUSE" THEMSELVES.

The Test In All Their Games Is the Ability to Bear Pain—In Italian Prisons Surgeons Are Always In Demand to Patch Up the "Players."

Mario Carara, a disciple of Cesare Lombroso, the Italian expert in criminal anthropology, has made a special study of the sports that criminals engage in. The innocent games of childhood, in the case of criminals, are tinctured with cruelty and sometimes accompanied by homicide.

Criminals skip the rope, but part of the game is to trip up the jumper and let him fall heavily upon the stone pavement.

Criminals play leapfrog, but the object of the game is that he who makes the "back" shall rise suddenly and violently just as the frog mounts and throw him to the ground.

The criminals play blind man's buff, but the man with the bandaged eyes carries a handkerchief bearing in one corner a jagged stone, a piece of hard, sharpened wood or a bit of iron. With this weapon he strikes those whom he pursues.

Another remarkable form of this game is for the blinded one to be struck by one or another of his companions if he fails to name the one that touches him. The penalty is not the innocent one of the children's game, but a blow so severe that a physician has often to be called in after a game is over, and occasionally the sufferer is disabled for some time.

It has been found in those Italian reformatories where prisoners are not kept in solitary confinement that prisoners' games are often accompanied with bloodshed, and that it is almost impossible to prevent cruelties. This is especially true where prisoners work together, for they secrete tools and use them as weapons in brutal sports.

In one of these games the player has in each hand a stick, having fixed in the end a keen metallic point. He interweaves his arms, revolving the sticks with rapidity, and the game is for another prisoner to thrust his head between the arms and endeavor to follow the revolutions of the sticks without being wounded. It usually happens that he receives 15 or 16 wounds and comes out with a bleeding head, while now and then mortal injuries are received.

The victim in another game has his eyes bandaged and places his palm upon a table, with fingers spread fanlike. Another criminal repeatedly strikes between the fingers with a pointed instrument. If he wounds a finger, then the two change places, and woe to the man who refuses the exchange. The game is dangerous, although the criminals assert that the wounds to the fingers are not deep or severe, because, they say, the metallic points are too short and do not penetrate far, a grim form of philosophy.

The sport of criminals is accompanied by characteristic craft. This is especially shown in the methods in which the newcomer is initiated into prison life. The novice is conducted into an improvised court chamber, where the judges are his fellow prisoners. He is placed upon a stand and gravely tried upon a pretended charge, and he has barely been condemned when the stand is suddenly drawn away, so that he is thrown violently upon the earth.

Many games necessarily imply resistance to pain as an absolute condition of success. For example, there is the game of "needles." One of the players places his closed fists upon the table, holding steadily two needles, one in each hand, the points being slightly exposed. It is the game then for a companion to strike with his own fists those of the other and becomes a question of endurance between the one who is pricked with the needles and the one whose fists are beaten by the other's knuckles.

There are contests in which the fingers and hands are deeply wounded, and the scars are an honorable distinction.

The characteristic feature of all these games, which are the recreation exclusively of criminals in prison, is the love of combat. If, as is held by experts, sports are the means of working off the superfluous activity of life, it is evident that superfluous activity, in the case of prisoners, is especially powerful. It has been noted in the case of prisoners that there is a prevalence of great agility and litheness, which Professor Lombroso considers a negative evidence of mental weakness, since it testifies to a greater development of the motorial centers at the expense of the other cerebral centers. But usually this physical energy is not properly used in the ordinary life of the criminal and finds outlet and enjoyment in sports.

Another characteristic of the games of criminals is the admiration shown for physical force, manifested in the docility with which the vanquished in such sports submit to the brutality of the victors, a thing observed among savages.

Finally the insensibility to pain exhibited in sports of criminals proves that such men are less acute in their physical senses as well as less sensitive to the pains of others, since what seems to others uselessly cruel is only the usual thing with criminals. As the drunkard, his taste hardened by alcohol, has need of a stimulant constantly stronger, so in the case of the criminal, the nervous system demands stimulants so strong that to the ordinary steady going individual they would be actually painful.—Pearson's Weekly.
